Freeze your fish

Using a plastic bag, make sure that as much air is out of the bag as possible. Freeze the fish solid. Once you have an insulated box, make sure the fish will fit completely inside the box. Use gel packs to cover the tail area of the fish because it thaws out first. Fill the void areas of the box with newspaper or kraft paper.

Extra protection

For best results; place the newspaper in the freezer before putting in the box. This draws the heat out the paper so that the paper can act as additional protection. If you have a freezer large enough, place the entire wrapped box in the freezer until you are ready to send it.

If you need assistance or supplies; call, text or email us.

Thank you,
